<sup>2</sup> The small business rates apply to a CCPC which earns active business income that is eligible for the small business deduction (“SBD”).

<sup>3</sup> The small business rates can only be applied to income up to the “business limit” for a taxation year. The “business limit” must be shared amongst CCPCs that are “associated” for income tax purposes. The available “business limit” for an associated group can be reduced in certain circumstances. A description of these rules is beyond the scope of this reference card.

<sup>4</sup> Included in the “Investment Income” rates is a 30.67% refundable tax. This refundable tax is recovered by the corporation when sufficient taxable dividends are paid to shareholders.

<sup>5</sup> “Canadian Dividends” refers to dividends paid from Canadian corporations and from foreign affiliates. This corporate tax on Canadian dividends is fully refundable to the corporation upon paying sufficient taxable dividends to shareholders, as described in footnote 4.

<sup>6</sup> Saskatchewan has extended the 0% provincial small business rate to June 30, 2023, with an increase to 1.00% for July 1, 2023 to June 30, 2024, and an increase to 2.00% for the period commencing July 1, 2024.

<sup>7</sup> A Saskatchewan CCPC benefits from provincial small business rates on eligible income up to $600,000 (compared to $500,000 in all other jurisdictions). Income in excess of the $500,000 Federal business limit, but below the $600,000 Saskatchewan business limit will be taxed at the Federal general rate of 15%, plus the relevant Saskatchewan small business rate.
